

Rapid Rehousing Gives Families a Safe Start and Brighter Future

Story provided by: Women's Resource Center

Our program provides more than rental assistance—it offers compassionate case management, vital information and referrals, and a safe space for parents and children to process their emotions, heal from trauma, and set goals for a future free from abuse.

A Collin's family came to our Rapid Re-Housing (RRH) program while fleeing domestic violence. Although the children- Henry and Lydia- were not directly abused, they were deeply affected as witnesses to the violence. Dana—determined to create a safer future—was juggling both a job and part-time college classes. Without the program, securing stable and a safe home would have been impossible.

Today, the Collin's family have a stable home and is financially secure. Dana has a degree that has opened the door to better job opportunities. Their journey is a powerful reminder that with the right support, families can break free from violence and rebuild their lives with strength and hope.

What is the Program that Helped?

Rapid Rehousing (RRH) is a homelessness assistance program that helps people move into permanent housing.

It provides short-term rental assistance, financial help with move-in costs, and supportive services like help with budgeting, finding jobs, or connecting to community resources.

The goal is to stabilize people in housing as quickly as possible and help them maintain it long-term.

What are we Asking Congress?

We call on Congress to fully fund all HUD housing, community development, and homeless assistance programs to prevent currently served families from losing their homes.
